

Limited Edition BAFTA Gifts by Thomas Lyte

English luxury brand Thomas Lyte is to give all nominees for the Orange British Academy Film Awards in 2009 bespoke eco-journals, featuring 'Script Notes' on the front cover. The notebooks have been handmade in England using bronze recycled leather, taking inspiration from the BAFTA award, and will be given to nominees including Kate Winslet and Dev Patel as part of the Orange British Academy Film Awards nominee goodie bag.

"We are delighted to be an official gift provider, for the second year running at The BAFTA's. Thomas Lyte is committed to working as ethically as possible which is why we suggested these luxury handmade notebooks in recycled leather. It is a great honour to have the opportunity to give a gift to the nominees of these prestigious awards", said, Kevin Baker, CEO of Thomas Lyte.

Thomas Lyte is producing 300 of the limited edition journals. These are exclusive to BAFTA nominees and presenters, however the BAFTA website will be featuring a competition from the 5th February where there are ten books available to win.
